

Class exercise 2-7-1 Embedding a video player

If you'd like to poke around with an iframe, it's easy to grab one from YouTube to embed your favorite video on a page.

Start by creating a new HTML document, including the basic structural elements, Creating a Simple Page. Go to YouTube and once you are on the page for your chosen video, look for the Share button; then choose the Embed option.

The iframe code is there for you to copy and paste. If you click "Show more," there will be further configuration options. Just copy the iframe code and paste it into the new HTML document. Open it in a browser, and you're done!
